Box 932345Sacramento, CA 94232-3120 Here is an all-new California DMV CDL practice test, based on the real general knowledge exam and the official CDL handbook, with 20 multiple choice questions to take you another step closer to obtaining a commercial drivers license in 2021! This California class B practice test covers a broad range of subjects that come up during the real exam: pre-trip inspection, winter driving, driving emergencies, antilock braking systems, skid control, dealing with fires... We could go on forever, the 2021 California CDL general knowledge test is really quite extensive, with every DMV written test paper being a whopping 50-question challenge. There is one thing this CDL practice test does not contain and that is questions on air brakes. The reason behind this is quite simple: air brakes are not covered by the general knowledge test and you must take a separate permit test for the air brakes endorsement, so we have gone ahead and created a separate California air brakes practice test for you! Feel free to sink your teeth into that DMV practice test once you're fully comfortable with these general knowledge test questions.For those who might have already spent hours looking for a class B California CDL drivers handbook - stop right now. There is no separate DMV handbook for the class B drivers license, the official CDL drivers manual is the only book you need and it works regardless of the drivers license class you are trying to achieve. And while we are on this note, let us tell you that there is no such thing as the California class B permit test. The general knowledge test for a commercial drivers license is always the same, but those who choose to apply for a class A drivers license have to take an additional DMV written test for combination vehicles. That is the only difference and that is actually a good news, because this means that you can use any California CDL general knowledge practice test without having to worry whether it is applicable to the class B drivers license test!How much time do you need to spend on this California practice permit test before you move on to the next exam? The rule of thumb here is that you need to be able to answer no less than 18 of these California CDL permit test questions correctly. This grade is somewhat higher than the one you are required to obtain at your local DMV office, as you can pass the CDL drivers license test by scoring 80%, but it's well worth creating a bit of a safety cushion for yourself and not to worry about missing one too many questions during the real exam.Enjoy your free California CDL class B general knowledge test (CA) 2021 and don't forget to spread the word on Facebook and Twitter! CDL Test Overview If you plan on operating a Commercial Motor Vehicle (CMV) then you are required to obtain a Commercial Driver License (CDL). In order to get a CDL, you must first take and pass a general knowledge test, various endorsement tests (depending on the license type you are seeking) and a driving skills test. The tests that you will take depend on the license classification that you are obtaining (Class A, B, or C) and the type of vehicle that you will be driving (e.g., Tanker, Double/Triple, Passenger Bus). To help our visitors, Test-Guide.com provides an overview of how to get your CDL license. CDL License Requirements In general, the CDL test is based on national requirements, although each state may add additional restrictions. CDL license requirements focus on your driving record, age, and health. For more information, you can visit our CDL license requirements page. You must have a Commercial Driver's License (CDL) if you plan on operating: Any single vehicle with a gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR) of 26,001 pounds or more. Combination vehicles that have a gross combination weight rating (GCWR) of 26,001 or more pounds, if the GVWR of the trailer or towed unit is more than 10,000 pounds. Vehicles designed to transport 16 or more passengers (including the driver). Any vehicle which requires hazmat placards or is carrying material listed as a toxin or select agent in 42 CFR Part 73. To determine the class of CDL license you need, please refer to the following diagram: Determining the Required Class of CDL Note: A bus may be either Class A, B, or C depending on whether the GVWR is over 26,001 pounds or is a combination vehicle. Which CDL Sections Should You Study? Use the following tables to determine which tests you should study for: Sections by License Type Section Class A Class B Class C General Knowledge X X X Passenger Transport Air Brakes X X X Combination Vehicles X Sections by Endorsement Section Hazmat Double/ Triple Tank Vehicles Passenger School Bus General Knowledge X X X X Passenger Transport X Air Brakes X Combination Vehicles X X Doubles and Triples X Tank Vehicles X Hazardous Materials X X School Buses X CDL Knowledge Tests You must take and pass one or more knowledge tests to earn your commercial driver's license. The tests you will take depend on the license class you are seeking (e.g., A, B, or C) and the endorsements that you need. These knowledge tests are summarized below: General Knowledge – The general knowledge CDL test is taken by all applicants. The test has 50 multiple choice questions. Major topics of the general knowledge test include: CDL rules and requirements, safe driving, safe transportation of cargo, and pre-trip vehicle inspections. Combination Vehicles – If you want to drive combination vehicles you must take and pass this CDL test section. The combination vehicles test has 20 multiple choice questions. The topics on the combination vehicles test include: driving combination vehicles safely, combination vehicle air brakes, antilock brake systems, coupling and uncoupling, and inspecting a combination vehicle. Air Brakes – If you plan on driving a truck or bus with air brakes, or pull a trailer with air brakes, you will need to take the air brakes CDL test. The air brakes test will have 25 multiple choice questions. Topics on the air brake test include: parts of an air brake system, dual air brakes, inspecting air brake systems, and using air brakes. Tank Endorsement – You are required to have a tank endorsement if you plan on driving a CMW over 26,000 pounds that is used to transport liquid/gaseous materials. The materials do not have to be hazardous. This endorsement is only required if the vehicle is a Class A or B vehicle with a permanently mounted take greater than 119 gallons or a portable greater than 1,000 gallons. Double and Triple Trailer Endorsement – If you plan on pulling double or triple trailers, you are required to pass this endorsement test. There are 20 multiple choice questions that assess your knowledge about driving safely with double and triple trailers. This part of the CDL test includes questions on how to couple and uncouple trailers, pulling double/triple trailers, doubles/triples air brake checks, and inspections. Hazardous Materials Endorsement – Hazardous materials (Hazmat) include explosives, flammable and combustible liquids and any materials that the shipper deems as hazardous. You must obtain a HAZMAT endorsement to operate any size vehicle that requires a HAZMAT placard (as further specified in 49 CFR 383.5). This endorsement test has 30 multiple choice questions covering the following topics: intent of the regulations, communication rules, loading and unloading, bulk packaging marking, driving and parking rules, and emergencies. School Bus Endorsement – Although these regulations may vary from state to state, you are required to have a school bus endorsement if you plan on driving a vehicle that carries 16 or more people, including the driver, that is marked with or displays the words "school bus." A school bus is used to transport students to or from school or authorized school activities. If the school bus is not transporting students, then a school bus manufacturer, dealer or mechanic is not required to have the endorsement. Before receiving a school bus endorsement, you must qualify for a passenger endorsement. This CDL test will cover the following topics: danger zones, use of mirrors, loading and unloading, emergency exit and evacuation, railroad-highway crossings, student management, antilock braking systems, and special safety considerations. Passenger Endorsement – You will need to obtain a passenger endorsement if you plan on driving any vehicle designed to carry 16 or more persons, including the driver. If the vehicle is a school bus, you will need to obtain an additional school bus endorsement. The passenger transport endorsement CDL test will have 20 multiple choice questions on the following topics: vehicle inspection, loading and trip start, on the road, after-trip vehicle inspection, prohibited practices, and use of brake-door interlocks.
